Twelve fighters were parked at the airfield of JUMTERBOG-ALTEN LAGER. A fighter was circling the field during artillery firing practices. A container about 60 inches long was seen under the fuselage of the plane when it landed. The nose of each fighter was painted red. The truck [redacted] was seen at the field.

Comment:

25X1A

Report confirmed previous information according to which fighters are stationed at the JUMTERBOG airfield. Only a few aircraft have been observed at this field during recent months so that it is assumed that only one fighter regiment is still located there compared with the two fighter regiments believed to have been stationed there in the early summer of 1949. However, no reports have been received on the withdrawal of fighter units from this field. The container observed under the fuselage of a fighter possibly was an external fuel tank.
